VHS — growing greater

Students change classes in newly constructed Social Studies wing.

in size

In the spring of '65 VHS began to grow . . . As workers noisily expanded Bearcat territory, teachers tried desperately to hold the attention of students who watched the day-by-day progress. Construction continued steadily through the summer and in September, the anticipation of the first day . . . the disappointment in each delay . . . until at last, we entered the new halls and classrooms for the first time.

Students watched as workmen added to VHS in the spring and waited patiently for the building to be completed in the fall.

Seniors enjoy the privilege of eating in a new Senior dinette.

Mrs. Booth prepares her Senior English students for writing research papers.

As our building grows in size, so must each student grow in knowledge . . . the freshman slowly grasps the meaning of $x - y = 4$, the sophomore tries his skill at dissecting, the junior relives the Civil War, and the senior comprehends Shakespeare's genius in reading Macbeth . . . each in itself a step toward a true knowledge of the world.

In a new classroom, Coach Watford discusses an assignment with a World Geography class.

Growing greater in knowledge and in leadership

In the fall of 1963 Mr. Kovacs left Junior High School to be principal of VHS . . . While serving as administrator, he was also a student . . . And in June, 1965 Mr. Kovacs became Dr. Louis Kovacs . . . thus giving the students of VHS the advantage of more skilled leadership.

Growing greater in understanding

To have a true knowledge of the world, one must have a true understanding . . . of his fellowman, of his world and of himself . . . This understanding he gains from reading the words of great masters, and from association with his superiors and his equals. As he exercises his understanding so does his knowledge of the world grow.

Students view an Art Exhibit, project of the Art Club. The art work is produced by VHS students.

The Library provides the quiet atmosphere needed for reading and research.

Mrs. Daniel helps her Latin students understand the civilization created by the Ancient Romans.

The Virginian staff feels that we express the sentiment of the entire student body with this dedication. We have chosen an outstanding man who has helped to prepare us to meet the challenges of the future . . . His understanding, his humor, his devotion to his students and to education have endeared him to each of us.

Holmes once said, "The World's great men have not commonly been great scholars, nor its great scholars great men." Because you are a great man and a great teacher, we do proudly dedicate the 1966 Virginian to you —

— Organizations —

Here at VHS the days are often long and always full . . . club meetings after school to plan for that long-awaited banquet, hours of drilling to perfect a new marching routine in band, chorus rehearsal for that final concert. But when the time for reflection comes . . . when one is alone . . . when friends are no longer there and the days activities have come to an end, you realize that, had it not been for the activities outside the classroom, "that shining moment in youth known as high school" would have sparkled less and less.

High-stepping majorettes lead the Big Orange Band

The Big Orange Band is very fortunate in having seven high-stepping majorettes to lead the way into their many performances. This year, under the leadership of Connie Cain, Head Majorette, they have worked tirelessly to perfect their many difficult routines. Other veterans are Connie Bailey, Carlina Tuell, and Suzanne Fields. Also this year, the Big Orange Band has acquired a new drum majorette. The old saying "good things come in small packages" fits Linda Burke perfectly. With Linda in the lead, the Pride of V.H.S. — the Big Orange Band, keeps its reputation of being one of the best bands around.

Under the leadership of Mr. Richardson and Mr. Seward, the Big Orange Band has grown, not only in number, but in quality. During their many years with the band, they have worked endlessly for the perfection of the band which has brought to the organization many outstanding awards.

The Big Orange Band brings on spirit

Every year, the Big Orange Band starts early by attending band camp to work out new routines and drills for the opening of school and football games. Throughout the year the band participates in many activities. This year, they received the Division I rating for the band. During the year, the Big Orange Band is very active in school events such as football games, pep meetings, Spring Festival, and many concerts. Also, the band sent 12 representatives to All State Band. The Big Orange Band is an organization to be proud of, and we are!

The 1965 Football season was one filled with ups and downs. In the first game of the season, the Bearcats edged out a 16-0 victory over John S. Battle. The 'Cats then traveled to Lynchburg, marking the first time a Virginia High team had played a team from the tough Western District. The 'Cats lost a bruising 21-33 game to the Lynchburg eleven. After leading 20-6 at halftime, the Orange Marauders lost to Grundy 26-39. Next the Bearcats defeated Abingdon 20-7, but lost to Richlands, the Conference Champions, 7-56. The Big Orange then tied Saltville 14-14 in a hard fought game. On the road again, the 'Cats lost to Tazewell 13-27. Graham of Bluefield came to town to defeat the Virginia High eleven. In the city championship game, probably the team's best game of the season, the Orange Marauders lost a hard fought 13-27 game to Tennessee. The team of '65 was over all a very good team, but due to lack of experience and depth it had its troubles. As usual, their sportsmanship was very commendable.

Coach Timmy Outlaw, only in his second year of coaching the varsity, led the Bearcats to a 17-4 record and a trip to the State Tournament. The Bearcats won their first four ball games, defeating John Battle 70-48; Richlands 48-46; Graham 70-54; and Abingdon 49-28. After the Christmas break the Cat's traveled across town to play Tennessee High. They were upset by the Vikings 51-61. After this loss the Bearcats got back into the winning column by trouncing Grundy 102-63; then the Bearcats won their next game beating Marion 45-44, a real close game down to the sounding buzzer. With first place at stake the team traveled to Tazewell where they lost a close game 55-58. The Orange Marauders marched on to win the next four games, defeating Graham 82-66; then for the first time in five years the Cat's defeated Tennessee High 77-61. Traveling to Grundy they defeated the Golden Waves 73-50. With a District tie at stake they defeated the Scarlet Hurricanes. In their second meeting with Tazewell the Cat's lost a close game by the small margin 72-73. Still retaining their fighting spirit the Bearcats bounced back to win their next three ball games; the scores were 58-47 over Battle; 70-54 past Richlands; 61-47 over Abingdon. The rest of the season was complete success. The Bearcats defeated Tazewell for the District Championship and triumphed over Marion and Tazewell to win the Southwest District Tournament. They were defeated in the State Tournament by Woodson 48-63.

Features

The school year's featured events make it memorable, distinguish it from the year before and all the years following . . . Cheerleaders made V-T Week the "bangiest" ever witnessed by the 'Cats . . . No girl can forget the nervous condition she developed while debating "should I or shouldn't I" when the little yellow Twirp bird swooped on VHS . . . Juniors prided themselves on their presentation of My Sister Eileen . . . And all the beauty and majesty that Bristol's northside students could muster highlighted the year with our most traditional tradition, the Spring Festival . . . As the myriad events change from one to another, the student experiences a new sensation. . . . A growing awareness of the real importance of activities, and of the proper place for each event in the student's heart. The Bearcat eventually realizes the true significance of his school's special occasions . . . and he takes pride in them, cherishing their memory.

Seniors boast new rings

A class ring is a symbol of all the triumphs and tears of that moment in youth passed as a high school Senior. The Virginia High 66'ers were chosen to initiate a change in the traditional ring of VHS.

Late in the Junior year planning was begun; class officers met with the principal and a representative of L. G. Balfour Company. Various suggestions were considered and decisions were finally reached: to the left of the stone would be the year, school seal, and date of establishment; to the right of the stone would be the date repeated, the word Bearcat, the face of a Bearcat, and two blossoms of the dogwood, Virginia's state flower; the stone would have a solid backing of gold and around the stone the name, Virginia High School, in raised letters.

No student feels like a Senior until he wears his class ring, and since the day of arrival VHS 66'ers, the first to wear the new ring, have worn their rings with pride.

Janet Gemmell displays smug confidence in "Bizzy Buzz's" powerful guarding.

From the bunkhouse in the main hall to boothill in the science wing, the western theme of "Bang 'em Up Bearcats" inspired spirit and enthusiasm into school life.

Blasting horns and blowing streamers were the signs that the traditional car parade was well on its way Thursday afternoon. That night, by the blazing flames of the bonfire, school spirit reached a peak as cheers soared from every person. The Snake Dance proved to Bristolians that VHS was behind its team all the way.

Friday's pep rally was just the beginning of the thrilling clash for the city championship. The curtain fell that night when the Bearcats were finally overpowered, but vowed to rise again next year.

"I'll bet you're plastered after a day's ironing, Wreck!" observes Ruth.

That great city of New York often attracts novice writers and actors seeking their fortunes. Such was the scene of this year's Junior Class Play — "My Sister Eileen". The two naive Midwestern girls who came to the big city to "make it big" were played by Delores Carmack as Ruth and Becky Stigall as Eileen. Appopolus, known to us as David Kerr, was their sly swindling landlord. The Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech, alias Dicky Davis, slept in the girls' kitchen. Violet, the stripper, played by Becky Thurmond, tried to find jobs for Ruth and Eileen. Thanks to much hard work and the marvelous direction of Mrs. Marianne Post, the play was a great success.

Twirp Week turns tables on tradition

Mr. Twirp's (Mike Hodgson) wings seem to be out of order.

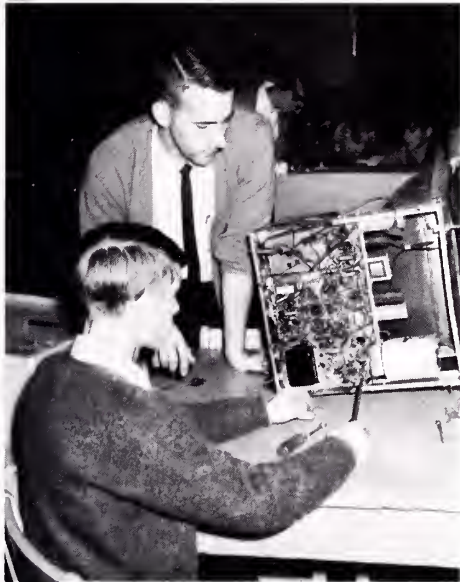

"Catch that boy!" Probably you heard a girl yell this through the halls of VHS during the week of February 14-18, and then caught sight of flying heels. Puzzled, you may have wondered what had happened to the age-old custom of boy chases girl. If you worried about the sad state of society when you saw the girl dish out the money, order the Big Jacks, or hold his coat, you should have remembered that this is all in the tradition of that topsy-turvy custom — Twirp Week.

— Academics —

In our quest for knowledge and for ourselves, our achievements many times prove greater than our own expectations. Were it not for our leaders, those who guide our learning, we might become accustomed to fumbling in darkness. Indeed, it is our good fortune that so many of these have chosen the course which allows them, if not to make history, to inspire those after them to do so.

— Underclassmen —

Slowly you begin to feel a part of VHS. All at once you are not just a number, or another student on a crowded campus. You quickly fall victim to the all-enveloping competition; it makes you nervous, it makes you laugh, it makes you cry . . . but to all it brings that intangible feeling of belonging . . . you are one of us.

Seniors

Just as our school has expanded this year through physical additions, so each student in the graduating class has expanded emotionally, academically, and socially through attending Virginia High. Each Senior has neared the completion of a four year period of growth and transition . . . teachers, studies, activities, and friendships have added to his completeness.

Faculty selects outstanding seniors

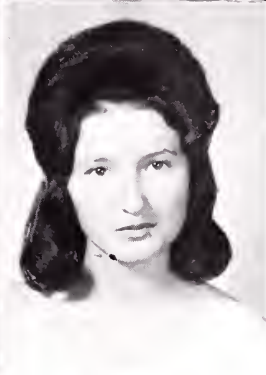

Larry Harrison, Mike Hodgson, Joanne McQueeney, Gene Denton, David Miller, Elizabeth Bailey, Carolyn Drinkard, Phil Hamilton, Linda Burke, and Barry Pitman.

Each year faculty members, who have taught at Virginia High for at least one year, are asked to nominate at least ten seniors who have achieved scholastically, who have shown characteristics of good citizenship and who have demonstrated qualities in leadership in class and school activities. After the nominations are received, the final vote is taken for SENIOR SUPERLATIVES. This is one of the highest honors that a student can receive.

Head Cheerleader chosen “Miss Virginian”

For the past five years a “Miss Virginian” contest has been sponsored by the annual, THE VIRGINIAN. Any senior girl wishing to enter in the contest submits her senior picture to the staff. From these, Virginia High’s most photogenic senior is chosen to be “Miss Virginian.” This year twenty-three girls submitted their pictures to be judged. Coach Casto Ramsey of Emory & Henry College, Emory, Virginia, was asked by THE VIRGINIAN staff to shoulder the responsibility of choosing “Miss Virginian” for this year.

Finale

The Tree, known by all who have attended VHS, stands as a symbol of our growth for the four years we have spent on this campus. Standing erect and tall, its arms strive to reach the heights . . . and show us what heights can be reached. As humble freshmen we stood beneath its awe-inspiring form . . . and now as mature Seniors we feel once again its ever-present majesty. Though we are not all the same, we gaze at VHS in earnest now. Could we have been freshmen such a short while ago? . . . Nearly forgotten are the sleepless nights, the searing sameness of routine . . . And suddenly we realize that the things we want to remember often happened so quickly and simply that we are not certain afterwards that they happened at all . . . A thousand, thousand years ago they asked us, "What are you going to be?" . . . And now in our silent, serious moments together we wander . . . now that the time is upon us . . . and strive now that the beginning is in sight . . .
